ALPINE CLIMBERS TO TRY MT. ROBSON

Noted Alpinists Will Set Out From Edmonton Next Week For Yellowhead.

To scale the peaks of Mount Robson, lying to the west of Edmonton at the Yellowhead Pass, and yet understand the difficulties involved, three noted English Alpine climbers who will arrive in Edmonton early next week and present a talk with pack party to the Yellowhead.

The men are E. S. Amery, correspondent of the London Times, and editor of the history of the South African war, and Messrs. Munro and Hastings, the well-known mountaineers, both mountain climbers and each has a record of over 30,000 feet.

They are now guests of the amateur mountaineering club, the Lake O'Hara Club in the Rockies where one hundred and thirty people are under way to make the long journey across the mountains, going yards above Lake O'Hara. Round Cathedral, Victoria, Huber, Lefroy, Callaghan, and other peaks, the Glacier Peak, Ringrose, Hargate, Riddle and Scarf, nearly all nine thousand feet high, are being climbed and official tents are in the open meadow. Sleeping tents are to remain at the base of the mountain, Jack, while certain, the Scottish Standard and Stars and Stripes are flying.

Mount Robson is the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies. It towers 13,000 feet toward the sky and the present crop has been considered unscaleable even to the skilled mountaineers. The men will have with them several hundred pounds of supplies and equipment, and have spent their lives among the Alps.

Mr. Amery was twice the Unionist candidate in Wolverhampton. In his first election he had a large majority, but in the second, after a long and exciting contest he was defeated by the narrow margin of six votes. Recently he completed a tour of the Himalayas in Everest in the Himalayas but this was abandoned owing to diplomatic reasons.

RECEIVER FOR ELECTRIC ROAD

Financiers Who Control Line Want to Demonstrate Its Earning Capacity.

Toronto, Aug. 5.—J. M. Campbell of Rochester, and Millford W. Childs of Medina, have been appointed receivers of the Buffalo-Lockport Electric Company, which has been in financial trouble since its incorporation in 1896. In the last few months it has been considered unscalable even to the skilled mountaineers. The men will have with them several hundred pounds of supplies and equipment, and have spent their lives among the Alps.

These men will inaugurate and help to fill the later grain it will delay the arrival of the blight and the rust and fungous a chance to attack the grain, but this is not likely to happen. The grain is in a good condition. It is understood that the action is necessary without interference from the government, as the grain earning capacity can be demonstrated. The company until recently has been unable to pay its debts to Rochester owing to its inability to secure the consent of the public service commission to increase rates over the New York Central Railway. This is now secured, and the debts are approximately to be met.

The mortgage liability of the company is $3,400,000 and the capital stock $1,000,000. A foreclosed estate of 2,340 shares of the railway company's stock, and besides has a creditor of the company to the extent of $24,500.

DROWNING FATALITY AT P.E.I.

Seven Try to Come Ashore in Lesky Pun, But Four Never Land.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 5.—Four men lost their lives by drowning today in the Northumberland Strait, when a lobster boat containing eight men left Charlottetown in the afternoon for a fishing trip to the opposite Charlottetown, to arrange for a picnic to be held there next Monday. The boat, the "Rocky Point," was necessary to anchor in rocky point and land in a punt. This punt was very leaky, and seven of the men had to leave the boat, rowing to shore. The boat leaked badly, and the closest light plant, both of which were in the water, were washed away. The four men were unable to swim and were drowned. Three of these men were identified as Mr. John and James Gallant. The name of the other victim is unknown.

GRILLING OF WESTERN FARMER COMMENCES

Anxious Period Prior to Harvesting of Crop—Fruit Growers Has Not Been Prominent This Season—Better Than Average Crop If Weather Sets.

Winnipeg, Aug. 5.—These are the anxious days with the western farmer, for the crop now maturing is exposed to several perils. The first is frost, which has already begun to be felt by the citizens. The sun and supply of water are also important factors. Prices have risen almost hourly and have now reached heights beyond the means of many to buy food. Thousands of Stockholders' poor already have left the districts, a few in tents, but most of them with no shelter. Their only hope is to catch fish to live on, and enough fish to keep alive. The danger of famine is imminent.

CENTENARY OF TENNYSON

Birth of England's Greatest Poet Laureate Took Place One Hundred Years Ago To-day—Distinguished Career Even From School-boy Days.

In this year of centenaries there is indeed tribute ever paid to none the English-speaking race should observe with more appropriate reverence than that of Alfred Tennyson, whose birth took place one hundred years ago to-day. On August 6th, 1809, at Somersby, England England's greatest poet bursts had a diamond birthday, and still lives to-day.

At Cambridge he won the Chancellor's Gold Medal, and was admitted to the entitled Timinton. It was from that time that his literary career dates, has it not?—and that of the world-wide fame to spread. He received the laureateship in 1850 upon the death of Wordsworth, and his name has since passed without his adding some glory to the English language.

In 1850 he became of Oxford entitled to him the honorary degree of D.C.L., and in 1884 he was raised to the peerage as Baron Tennyson. A life of service followed, and he died at Isle of Wight. He died in Aldworth on October 6th, 1892, and was buried there.

The unquestioned supremacy of Shakespeare in the ancient times of art and letters still exists according to Tennyson in the Victorian age. But Tennyson has another distinction to his credit, and that is that he must be erratic, and that the artistic temperament must have been born with him, and rules of morality. There are no escapades like those of Burns and Byron, Verdi and Wagner, in the history of life. And, though he was not of great financial gains, like Voltaire, that Pierrot Morgan of poets, he was far away the most popular poet of Chatterton and Oway, and lived most of a long life in happy simplicity, in his beloved Isle of Wight.

His father was a master, his mother a great daughter, who was duly directed on the way he should go. But he was a household word in England, and he died with sound morality, and Tennyson wrote good verses before he was born. His "In Memoriam" and "Ulysses" were published when he was 17, and his brother Charles only one year older.

At the time Tennyson attended Cambridge, the revolutionary waves of 1830 had rung Europe with red, and this inspired in the young poet's soul his distaste for "ridiculous radicalism" which echoes through Locksley Hall, "Spartacus After."

Chief! Conquer! Conquer, China! Once again the sickening game— Freedom, free to play herself, and dying while they shun her name.

Except a brief spasm of sympathy with Spanish revolutionaries, he remained a conservative throughout his "Timinton." Tennyson's prize caused Charles Whistler, the famous poet, to say: "If I were an Oxford, the author would have had a better chance of being rusticated, with the result that his 'In Memoriam' and 'Ulysses' would have been written when he was 17, and his brother Charles only one year older."

VACCINATION FOR TYPHOID PREVENTION

Experiments Show That Poisons Can Be Made Immune—Dr. Whitlow Was Not Advised to Take Typhoid Vaccine But Only in Cases Where Largely Exposed to Contagion.

That typhoid fever, as well as smallpox, can be prevented by the use of vaccine has now been clearly established, as the results of recent experiments in America and elsewhere in Europe. Recently a number of United States private were vaccinated against typhoid fever, and developed the disease in a mild form. Later they were vaccinated, but the disease did not appear.

A few days ago they underwent the supreme test, that of drinking water from a glass of stagnant water which had been placed in the little house in Cheyenne, Wyo., "where are you going to get that poison?" asked Carville.

"My dear Carville," responded Milnes, "the thing is not so easy as you think. What will my constituents say if I tell them I have taken a dose of typhoid fever?" They know nothing about me or his secret, and they will hardly have any objection to my relation of my own, and that the whole affair is a job."

Soldier, who was Carville's response, "Richard Milnes, son of the day of judgment, when the Lord looks down on us, we are all to blame."

Dr. Whitlow, medical officer of the U.S. Cavalry, had considerable experience in typhoid, in speaking to a Bulletin representative, and said that he had a general knowledge of the experiments, but had not learned of any cases of typhoid fever, as yet, in Western Canada.

"It would not be all practicable to apply to democratic taste, but there is ample justification in his case. So he may take the vaccine when he accepts a position in 10 years before Longfellow's retirement," said an order from the King of Italy.

Longfellow induced him to read Tennyson's "Ulysses" and Tennyson received the compliment.

There was considerable ill-feeling at first, and the policy of withholding pay may have been partially responsible for the opposition to his appointment, but he soon overcame it.

Shirley Knights, the dramatist, who wrote "Virginia," was another who knew nothing of either, but Longfellow induced him to read Tennyson's "Ulysses" and Tennyson received the compliment.

It was considered that the public would not be able to appreciate the poem, and that it would be useless to offer it to the public.

On to the body cells, which absorb more or less of it. But the cells do not absorb it, and the body becomes infected, and the person, unable to manufacture on their own account an antitoxin, becomes ill.

The specific poison, which is typhoid fever, attacks the body cells, and drives them out of the system. This is what happens every time when a person is exposed to the typhoid fever.

One would naturally suppose that after killing off the enemy, the cells would stop, as a matter of fact, they do not.

They continue to turn it out for the rest of their lives. Thus, if at any time afterward an attempt is made to infect them again, they are killed off before they have time to multiply and cause trouble again.

New, when one is inoculated with the typhoid vaccine, exactly as with smallpox, is easily manufactured on the skin of the person, and the specific poison, which is typhoid fever, attacks the body cells, and starts to turn it out for the rest of the person's life.

Having once begun to make it, they continue to do it throughout the life of the individual, and that is rendered forevermore immune.

BISMARCKLES.

It looks as if the Unionists had taken a lead from the book of the people they now intend to dress the Germans. It is the fault of the Iron Chancellor to bring outside pressure to bear on national affairs when political currents were not running in his direction. When things were quiet he was not afraid of being credited with having repeatedly stirred up trouble ahead, or of professing to discern trouble abroad, for the purpose of arousing the patriotism of the German people, which popularizing of his views succeeded in turning him to his own account and to the discomfiture of his political foes. The Unionists attempted something of the sort. The Asquith Government, in association with the traitors of British Liberalism, has succeeded in bringing with amending and ameliorating conditions at home rather than looking for enemies to conquer abroad. Necessarily they have devoted attention and money to this end. To combat them in this field was foreign to the original intention of the Unionists and hopeless in itself. If no other arena the Government were as other element were interested into stirred of another term of office. Something had to be done, however, and the thing decided on was that it was a trick of Bismarck. On a sudden, prominent opposition gentlemen began to talk of a cloud on the horizon. It grew with amazing rapidity until they declared that war was coming. They were not only an instant and unprovoked national effort could prepare the nation to withstand it. Military men and naval men were drawn into the fray and added their ready testimony to the inadequacy of the national defences. The whole nation was put on the war with Germany. No doubt it was hoped the Government would remain inactive, or better still, be forced to admit its inability to finance the troops and armaments which were declared necessary. This admission would open the way for proclaiming the necessity of tariffs as a means of raising revenue for national defence. At any rate it was hoped and expected to exact from the Government the credit for which would be of political benefit to the Opposition and return them to power "to save the country." The "wave" was created all right, but the Government failed to be taken unaware. The Imperial Defence Conference, mainly by the Unionists who, as far as I can learn, was called a kind of trumped brigade, was called but failed to blow the expected notes. Instead the Government fell in line with the idea, admitted the necessity of a tariff, and, what is more, and rather absurd the difference is an ally, emerging from the incident with anything but the appearance of men indifferent to the national security. An Imperial Defence Conference, and is now devised means for the proper and permanent defence of the Empire against any probable combination of foes. Now it is announced that besides the four dreadnoughts being built this year the Admiralty will lay down two more, which will be better warships than any battleship worse than dreadnoughts. Thus the Asquith Government seems to have taken advantage of the wind created by their opponents' whistling and filled their own sails with it. They have been the first to descend on the opposition of safeguarding the Empire, and of being less pessimistic about the chances of doing so. They also retain the credit due for their domestic and social reforms, and, though they do not attract attention by the war scare, while Lloyd-George and Churchill have been playing the Government's hand Mr. Haldane has raked in the trick for while the other follows hard on his heels. He has said that we are all right when a Bismarck is playing them, but Mr. Balfour and Lord Milner hardly measure up to the job.

WALT MASON.

Governor-General Headed for Yukon

Vancouver, August 5.—Earl Grey called at two o'clock this afternoon for Skagway on the Federal government steamer. After a short stop at Dawson, after a four hours' stay in Vancouver. He expects to return to Ottawa on the 12th. He will remain on the coast a week or ten days, after which he will go to camp near the head of the Yukon River, East Kootenay, as a guest of the government of British Columbia. Mr. W. G. Ross, Commissioner of the Yukon, will be joined by Lady Grey, who will leave Ottawa for the coast within the next two or three weeks.

TURBULENT SPAIN.

Disturbances are not altogether novelties in sunny Spain. The father of the present king was driven from his country when eleven years of age by the revolution of 1868. His parents fled to France, and the young prince was sent to England to be educated. His mother abdicated in his favor and in 1874 in reply to birthday greetings from sympathizers who shared his exile he announced himself as King Alfonso. For a time he was the Spanish King. A year later a counter-revolution engineered by a less astute military chief opened the way to the throne and he returned at the age of eighteen to receive an enthronement. For a time he was King Alfonso, but his popularity was so great that his people by personal courage visiting epidemic-stricken districts and by consistent interest in promoting the public welfare. He died in 1885 at the age of twenty-eight, leaving the country affairs in so stable condition that the subsequent civil war with the United States ten years later without anything approaching an attempt at revolution. The present king was born July 22, 1886, and is the son of the late King Alfonso. He ascended the throne shortly after his father's death and during his minority the country was in the hands of his mother. In 1902 he ascended the throne and a few years later married an English princess, Victoria. The education of the young king has been excellent, and the young seems to possess some of the personal prowess of his father and during the troublous times of the past few weeks has been pursuing his course of life with little or no difficulty. He has shown a decided interest upon his life. At present he has the best of both the insurgents at home and the Moors across the Straits and is in fair way to weather the storm without loss of life or throne, both of which were in imminent danger a few days ago.

THE UNAUDITED BOOKS.

The school board and the city council are in disagreement as to who should audit the books of the board. The school says it should be by the auditor of accounts, but the city council says the auditor is not busy. It may be supposed the purpose of the council is to compel the board to do its own work and bear its own expenses. It is only natural that the cost of audit should be charged to the board, but there are many ways of looking at the matter. The board makes demands on the council for the money it needs. It would seem to be sound business practice for the body administering the school to have an official look into the way in which the money is spent. This is no doubt what was the thought of the Legislature in making the law it was. As the school board is in the matter of financial management of the school, public and the council has an interest directly for the money turned over to it, it would seem justifiable on the part of the council to find out where and for what the money goes. There is no reason why the auditor should not be charged with no check on the expenditure of money which they provide and for which the ratepayers hold them principally at least responsible. The costs could of course be charged against the school board. As for the city auditor, he has the same right as hardly be construed as narrowly as to mean that the council cannot appoint another man to do the work for them, under supervision of the regular city auditor if necessary.

THE CHEAP THINGS.

Oh, how the sparkling water in the little bubbling brook, for I've always found it wholesome, and I've never been ill since I took to it. I drink it down and no one makes an entry in a book, and there comes no bill calling for it. And the good old-fashioned sunshower is a very pleasant hour; let us there be a sunshower, and then you'll be a cent; they'll be pumping it through pipe-lines and through meters priceless. The water will be sold in tablets, and the tablets will be advertised for rent. Ah, the balmy air of summer, as it comes along, and the water will be sold in the bushel; while it's plentiful and cheap, the supply will soon be cut off, and the price will be raised, and the price to the consumer will disturb him in sleep. Let us there be a sunshower, and then you'll be a cent; they'll be pumping it through pipe-lines and through meters priceless. The water will be sold in tablets, and the tablets will be distributed by agents who go make off on their own account.
